Planematrix [Mac/Win]

You are kidnapped and put on board a spaceship to a distant planet. There you discover a strange energy mass which leads to a nearby world. In this world there is a black space pyramid that seems to follow you, and that begins to spin faster and faster in the background of the energy mass leaving a matrix trails effect in the surrounding area. The pyramid is spiralling out of the screen in real time. When it gets near you it spins faster and faster until it becomes so heavy that you can't move or stand on it anymore. It falls back into the center of the screen with lots of flashing lights and energy trails. Every now and then it starts to spit out balls with screeching sounds that fall onto the ground with a "THWUMP" sound. If you get hit, you get a damage. If you close your eyes or disconnect your stereo- or turntable the energy mass and pyramid are gone. Mouse myocardium, and human and rabbit skeletal muscle were fixed for electron microscopy at physiologic (37 degrees C) and nondepolarizing (4 degrees C) temperatures.
